Headline:
A murky day with rain over western areas.

Today:
A murky day for all, with a band of rain, heavy at times, lingering over western areas through the day. Eastern areas remaining largely dry. Winds will be lighter and easing throughout but remaining brisk in the south. Feeling mild. Maximum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Tonight:
A wet evening, as the band of rain moves eastwards across the country. Rain will be heaviest over western areas and ease going overnight, leaving clear spells. Winds easing further. Minimum temperature 7 deg C (45 deg F).

Thursday:
After a cloudy start, a largely dry day with plenty of sunny spells. Occasional outbreaks of patchy rain remain possible. Mild, but colder than recently with overnight frost possible. Maximum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Cold to start Friday, then dry with plenty of sunshine. Cloudier, but largely dry for Saturday and Sunday, with sunny spells. Mild days throughout, but overnight frost and fog possible.
